

AXIS EXPANDS SUPPLY CHAIN SOLUTIONS THAT IT OFFERS ITS CUSTOMERS WITH NEW FACILITY IN LONDON

Maspeth, N.Y., July 12, 2012—Axis Global Logistics—a leading provider of domestic and international transportation, fulfillment and supply chain services—announced that it has opened a new facility in London, England.

Strategically located near Heathrow Airport and staffed by a team of highly-skilled and experienced logistics professionals, this new facility allows Axis to expand its capabilities when it comes to providing supply chain solutions to its domestic and international customers— solutions that offer customers direct benefits such as cost savings. The London facility joins a network of Axis offices and distribution and warehouse facilities which are strategically located across the U.S., Canada, Europe and Asia. The company also has more than 800 agents worldwide.

“Axis has always been a global company with worldwide capabilities,” explained Brian Harvey, Axis’ Vice President of National Sales and Marketing. “The opening of our London location is just the latest example of our continuing effort to increase our global footprint so that we can serve our domestic and international customers even better.”

The London facility will directly benefit customers by providing Axis with:

- Enhanced control of customer freight into Europe through the leveraging of Axis’ nightly consolidations into the region—Axis currently runs two flights a night/6 days a week into London.
- Additional consolidation opportunities that provide cost savings to customers.
- A gateway to the European ground truck network.

“The added control and responsiveness that our London location will provide directly translates into Axis being able to deliver even better service for our customers in Europe and elsewhere,” explained Harvey.

Axis specializes in time-critical shipments that require a high-degree of personal attention which means that the company's London facility will be able to offer clients with these requirements the fastest, most reliable delivery available through its expedited services. Axis—and its London facility—also offer customers a logistics solution that meets their precise requirements—whether it involves hand carrying an individual package or chartering an airplane.

The logistics services available at Axis' London location are part of an overall supply chain solution that the company designs and implements for its customers. Built on global capabilities, industry-leading technology and a leadership team of veteran logistics professionals, this solution rationalizes the supply chain process thus optimizing costs and efficiency.
